

Dr. Aleid Hillebrand – veterinary acupuncturist, teacher, teaching assistant

After graduating as a vet in 1998 at Ghent University in Belgium, Aleid worked as a small animal vet at several practices in England and Wales. Due to illness she was unable to work for a good few years, but experienced the value of holistic treatment first hand. When her health started to improve again, she decided to become a veterinary acupuncturist. Now she treats not only dogs and cats, but rabbits and horses as well.
