

Dr. Annika ten Napel – veterinary acupuncturist, holistic veterinarian, teacher

In 2006, I started working as a licensed equine veterinarian at the holistic practice for animals Den Hoek.

While studying veterinary medicine in Utrecht, my interest was broader than mainstream veterinary medicine. Therefore, - during my veterinary medicine training – I also took up on the three year training in acupuncture at NAAS (Dutch institute). I completed this acupuncture training successfully in 2006. In the same year I graduated as veterinarian and was ready to start working at Den Hoek.

By the philosophy of life long learning, I continue to undergo training and refresher courses in my field frequently. I practice equine holistic veterinary medicine and have taken up on additional training in veterinary acupuncture, chiropractic, homeopathy and herbal medicine. I followed internal training at Den Hoek to work with the lecher antenna and the biosensor. I also enjoy teaching in several courses at Healthcare-Academy Dem Hoek (Acupuncture course, Lecher-antenna course, Connection sensor course).

Curriculum vitae:

- 2006 Acupuncture NAAS
- 2006 Diergeeneskunde Utrecht University
- 2006 Internal training lecher antenna and Connection sensor
- 2007 Veterinary acupuncture IVAS Belgium
- 2008 Chiropractic FES
- 2011 Phytotherapy STEHD