

Kim Lim, BVSc, CVA, CCRT

Kim became an IVAS Certified Veterinary Acupuncturist in 1992, received her Master of Animal Chiropractic from RMIT in 2003 and became a Certified Canine Rehabilitation Therapist (CCRT, CRI) in 2017.

Since 1996 she has worked solely in integrative, complementary medicine using a combination of acupuncture, TCM, biomechanical medicine (chiropractic, osteopathy, rehabilitation), bach flowers, homotoxicology and so forth to treat her canine patients, a few cats and the odd llama or two.

On completion of her Master's degree, she became involved in teaching the RMIT Animal Chiropractic course from 2002 to 2009 and more recently the Graduate Diploma in Animal Biomechanical Medicine. She has also been involved in teaching the Australian IVAS acupuncture course and is currently a mentor to interns completing their CCRT certification. In 2013 Kim was asked to join the Australian Veterinary Acupuncture Group (AVAG- Australian affiliate of IVAS) and has remained on the committee ever since in various roles of president elect, president, past president, and newsletter editor.

Kim has given lectures at several of the Australian Veterinary Association Annual Conferences, the IVAS Congress and the Animal Biomechanical Professionals Australasia conferences.
