

Laura Romanó, DVM, MRCVS, CVA

My name is Laura Romanó, and I work as a Holistic Veterinarian freelance. I am an expert in Traditional Chinese Veterinary Medicine and Physiotherapy, with particular attention to a multimodal approach combining TCM nutrition, acupuncture, and physical therapies.

Immediately after graduating in Veterinary Medicine at the University of Milan, Italy in 2006, I started to study Non-Conventional Medicines applied to animals. I obtained my first certificate in Veterinary Acupuncture in Italy in 2009 and from that moment on I never stopped increasing my knowledge and putting it into practice every day. I have worked with both horses and small animal but recently I am particularly fascinated by working with cats.

I have been and active member and lecturer at the Italian Society of Veterinary Acupuncture (SIAV-ItVAS) as well as coordinator and speaker at national and international conferences.

In 2014 I moved to London from Italy where I obtained a second international certificate in Veterinary Acupuncture from the International Veterinary Acupuncture Society (IVAS) and a post graduate certificate in Veterinary Physiotherapy at Nottingham University. Here, I founded London Vet Rehab, the first mobile rehab unit in England for small animals that provides a multimodal approach to physical rehab including hydrotherapy (underwater treadmill), acupuncture and physiotherapy treatments directly at home.

At this point in my career, my goal is to make my knowledge and passion for Non-Conventional Veterinary Medicine available to others. I would like to increase my teaching activity for the youngest to spread the importance and the added value of an integrative and multimodal approach, aiming to open the future veterinarians and other veterinary professionals' mind to a holistic view.